LLOYD GEORGE AGAIN HURLS DEFIANCE AT PARTY FOES

Reviews Accomplishments Of His Regime

IS ACCLAIMED

Calls Versailles Pact Charter Of Liberty For Millions

(Reuter's service)

London, Oct. 21.—Prior to the Premier's arrival at Leeds a meeting of the National Liberal Council elected him President and Mr. Winston Churchill Vice-President.

Crowds, penned in barricades outside the hall, cheered Mr. Lloyd George's arrival tumultuously. Limelights were turned on him as he walked to the platform, the audience of three thousand cheering frantically and singing: "He's a jolly good fellow!"

Sir Hamar Greenwood, Mr. McCurdy and other ex-Ministers were seated on the platform.

The Chairman, Lord Airedale, described Mr. Lloyd George as the pillar of the people and the center of the world's desire and said that the Yorkshire Liberals would never forsake the man who of all others stood for democracy and victory.

Mr. Lloyd George said that the banner of party strife had been hoisted at the Carlton Club and the Coalition, that had ensured victory, leading the nation out of the troubles of peace, had been ended because the party was not getting enough from it. It was for the nation to decide whether the party or the nation came first. He stood for the people in whose hands he put his record whether he had served his native land honestly and sincerely (cheers and cries of "You always did. God bless you!")

WHY COALITION FELL

Examining the causes of the fall of the Coalition, the Prime Minister said that, first, it had no partisan press to defend it and, secondly, never had Ministers been so continuously hard-worked. He himself had never had a holiday but was now one of the unemployed and was able to tell his story. He had been told that he might have been a good war minister but he was no good in peace, otherwise, he was a good doctor in a case of life and death but no good in curing a headache.

The war had not been a bad test of his services to the nation, while, as regards peace, he took a leading part in establishing Old Age Pensions and Health Insurance.

He claimed that the Treaty of Versailles was a charter of liberty to tens of millions of people. Its first clauses established the League of Nations. He moved the resolution at the Council of Ten on which the League was based. The Treaty freed Central Europe from the oppression of armaments and he predicted that the democracies in other lands would not continue to bear the burden of armaments. Another provision of the Treaty was the Article to improve conditions of labor by international co-operation.

NATIONAL CREDIT

The Prime Minister dwelt on the Government's success in re-establishing national credit instead of borrowing like the Continental countries. They had ruthlessly reduced their expenditure and services in spite of endless opposition and had gained no votes by it. Great Britain was the only country in Europe with a completely balanced budget with the result that she was now beginning to look the dollar in the face on equal terms.

They had pulled through these difficulties largely through the courage and statesmanship of Chancellors of the Exchequer, like Mr. Chamberlain and Sir Robert Horne, doing unpopular things because they knew that they were right, with the result that we had now recaptured the money market of the world. Yet the combination responsible for this marvellous achievement had been smashed. It was a crime against the nation.

The task of retrenchment had been aided by the manner in which Mr. Churchill had handled Mesopotamia and Palestine, where the cost had been brought almost to a minimum.

A Romantic Trek From The Land of The Midnight Sun Through The Heart Of Asia, The Fantastic Land of Mongolia, And Mysterious Thibet To Shanghai.

XIII—ACROSS DZUNGARIA

By Larry Lehrbas

Dzungaria is a vast stretch of Asia's hinterland walled in lofty mountain ranges still unexplored by white men. It is at the cross-roads of the life of inner Asia, between China and Russia—a desert empire apart. It is the birthplace of Genghiz Khan, the Mongolian demi-god, over whose ten-year trail Serge and his Russian companions were trekking from far off Archangel down to Shanghai—a land of exceptional horror, mountains, oases, deserts, passes, fertile plains, winding rivers, and rivers that were sucked into the desert sands—"the cradle of the human race" from where went the Khans and their conquering hosts to subdue and assimilate Finns, Magyars and Eskimoes, take plunder from Peking and Stamboul. Dzungaria, the desert mothers of fighting fools!

Out of Guencher almost in the shadow of 'Ghost Mountain,' a lone, lofty peak that rears itself on the rim of the desert they passed a long caravan. Their Chanto guide told the horsemen in the calvacade that the Chinese saw smoke and fire belches from the mountain whenever the gods visit it, and ghost-winds moon and cry about its lonesome summer and winter freighted with sand or snow.

CARAVANS FOR GOBI

Guencher is the center of the caravan trade across the Gobi desert, even as in the old days it was the cockpit of Asia, the fighting grounds of the hosts of Islam and Buddha, of Chinese and Russians, Chanto and Dungar, and the many wild tribes that inhabited its stretches. The caravan the calvacade passed consisted of over one hundred camels plodding along, tied nose to tail. At their head strode a camel-leer, strange, silent men who, month in and month out, stride at the head of the caravan across the desert, thousands of miles to and fro. They are the guides, for the riders of the Bactrian camels know their way, but the richly and colorful garbed mandarins who ride the desert-expresses, the dromedary camels, are merchants and travelers who know not the way.

With tinkling bells the caravan passed, loaded with the riches of the interior and the calvacade rode on. To the north were the hot sands, burning and feverish. To the south were the lofty, snow-tipped mountains. In a half day they reached a well in the midst of several dunes spotted with tamarisk and then trotted on with sleeps and rests until they camped for a day beside Bar Kul, the lake. Bar Kul bears the same name as Barkul, the city. It means "wild animal lake," being named from the thousands of wild broncos that roam the grazing lands around its shores. Around Guencher camels are the chief animals of burden, but in the Barkul country the government keeps a horse corral where it breeds and captures hundreds of Mongolian ponies each year.

Barkul was once the center of the caravan traffic, but in recent years its position has been taken by Guencher, which provides better pasturage for the camels at the grassy wells around the city. Barkul today is a morbid town on the rim of the sands, dirty, inhabited by the most surly people Serge met on his long trek—a lonely, sarcastic touch of half-baked civilisation at the jumping off place.

OVER THE PASS

Out of Barkul the calvacade passed one of the strangest sights in inner Asia. The country suddenly changes to one of prosperous fertility dotted with little farmhouses and peopled with a happy, prosperous folk and hundreds of cattle, sheep and horses. In the midst of the 'Garden of Eden' in the desert stands a pile of sand dunes, higher than even those in the desert country. The countrymen told the trekkers that many, many years ago a giant, peeved at a village there, tossed a handful of sand on the village, burying it forever. Even now, they say, they can hear crowing chickens and neighboring horses at evening time. The sand covers an area of about 8 miles, which was some 'handful' of sand!

From the sand dunes the calvacade climbed up the Chagan-bulak pass (about 8,000 ft.), the lowest divide over the mountain chain, with the Barkul Mountains on one side and the Karlik Tagh's on the other, and then down the mountainside and across the plains to Hami.

MARCO POLO'S 'CAMUL'

Six hundred years ago Marco Polo, the famed Venetian traveler, whose tales of the wonders of inner Asia may still be read with great gusto, visited Hami, then called by its ancient name of Camul. Before

FOUR DAYS MORE IN WHICH TO GIVE TO Y.W.C.A. FUND

Teams Working Hard But $8,000 Is Still Needed For Budget

The third report rally of the Y. W. C. A. campaign for sixteen thousand dollars for the annual budget of the organisation was held yesterday afternoon at five o'clock at the campaign headquarters, 11a Quinsan Road and $8,530.50 turned in as the total monies collected to date.

Only four more days remain before the date scheduled as the close of the campaign while nearly one half the money to be collected is still to be secured. The workers, who have striven diligently making calls upon citizens of Shanghai during the past nine days, said at today's rally that they had no intention of stopping work until every cent of the needed amount was in hand.

Of the money collected $3,200 has come from people who have never given to the organisation before, but on the other hand many of the persons who are listed in the records of the organisation as givers of past years are no longer residents of the city. Shanghai's constantly fluctuating population makes it necessary for the organisation to appeal to a group of newcomers each year.

The most notable gift in generosity of spirit as well as in size which has come to the organisation this year came yesterday—a gift of 500 taels given to Mrs. Hugo Reiss for the work of the Y. W. C. A. by Mr. Li Ching-mai. It is a direct contribution from a Chinese man for the purpose of assisting Chinese women to the opportunities which the program of the organisation opens up to them—an opportunity to learn educationally the things which have for a long time been within the reach of men, and in addition to learn how to be better homekeepers and mothers.

Throng Pays Honor To Judge Charles Lobingier At Anniversary Banquet

Five Hundred Gather At French Club For Community Function; Speakers In Glowing Tribute To Judge's Work And Qualities

Americans and many other nationals to the number of fully five hundred persons gathered at the French Club last night in eloquent attestation to the esteem in which Judge Charles Sumner Lobingier is held by the community of Shanghai.

The occasion was a complimentary community banquet tendered under the auspices of four leading American organisations in connection with the twentieth anniversary of Judge Lobingier's elevation to the Bench. The organisations which arranged the dinner are the Far Eastern American Bar Association, the American Chamber of Commerce, the American Association and the American University Club.

The function was presided over by Mr. Stirling Fessenden, dean of the Shanghai American bar, as toastmaster and the program included speeches by Major Arthur Bassett, former U. S. District Attorney; Mr. V. G. Lyman member of the Municipal Council and of the Executive Committee of the American Chamber of Commerce; Dr. F. L. Hawks Pott, president of St. Joh 's University; Mr. T. H. Simmang, representing the Tientsin bar and outports and Mr. Hsu Yuan, Commissioner of Foreign Affairs, who spoke on behalf of himself and General Ho Feng-li, Military Governor of Sungkiang and Shanghai.

In response Judge Lobingier gave an interesting "retrospection" of his years in the judiciary, telling of its beginnings, of his work in the Philippines and in China and adding some entertaining reminiscences of the prominent and interesting men—including four American presidents—with whom his work had brought him in contact.

The program of speechmaking was preceded by a solo, excellently sung by Mr. R. A. Curry, and the banquet was followed by dancing.

MAJOR PASSETT SPEAKS

Major Bassett paid many glowing tributes to Judge Lobingier and outlined his long career both on the Philippines Bench and later in his constructive work in the United States Court for China: He stated that when Judge Lobingier left the Philippines, the members of the Philippine Bar Association passed resolutions in the nature of glowing testimonials to the remarkable achievements in Philippine Jurisprudence, and in the words of Chief Justice Arrelano, stated that although the loss of Judge Lobingier was sore indeed it was a splendid tribute to him to be appointed to the bench in China and for that reason all true and loyal Filipinos bid him Godspeed:

Touching on his splendid achievements in jurisprudence, Major Bassett said that he had recently read a bibliography of Judge Lobingier's works which comprised 92 volumes on all legal subjects, including treatises on International law, on Spanish, French, German, Dutch, Chinese and Hebraic public law and political science. But the greatest of his works, and the most recent, was on Extraterritoriality, which included 1,000 cases.

The speaker believed that the latest volume should be considered as a fashion book, with Judge Lobingier the author of American fashions in Shanghai. He said that he hoped that the Judge would have illustrations in the second volume showing some "horrible examples." Lawyers are frequently tailors and they cut their own cloth in such a way as to make a fat client after a single charge look lean.

Major Bassett then traced the work accomplished by the United States Court since its inauguration by Act of Congress in 1906 and eulogised the remarkable and splendid achievements of Judge Lobingier as its head. Inclosing he said that Judge Lobingier had erected an imperishable monument to himself in his work on Extraterritoriality which would be handed down from generation to generation not only by Americans but also by Chinese, since it helped them better to understand their internal and external problems tending toward an abolition of Extraterritorial rights.

IN THE OLD DAYS

Mr. V. G. Lyman spoke briefly of the time in China before there was any American Court, when it was impossible to be haled into court for a violation of traffic ordnance because there was no such thing as traffic, or automobiles, of the time when a civil suit was a great event. Mr. Lyman laughingly recalled the time when American Consuls were appointed not because of any particular ability, or any training in International law or jurisprudence but merely to get them as far away from Washington as possible.

He drew a strong comparison between the Consular Court of the old days—when it was the Consul's perogative to talk over any case with his friends and be partially, or frequently entirely, governed by their opinions—and

Empty Coffin Used For Demonstration

(China Press Service)

Peking, Oct. 22.—An empty coffin figured in the demonstration at the meeting of the Constitutional Committee of Parliament on Saturday. Mr. Hsu Chin-wu, leading a dozen members of the Kuomingtang party marched down to the session with an empty coffin and small banners, advocating the support of Parliamentarians for the legal president, Dr. Sun Yat-sen.

The demonstrators managed to break in to the committee room despite the interference of the military police and only left the place when they learned that the speaker, Wu Ching-lien, had escaped through a back door.

Plans To Laugh At Coal Strikers

Joseph Watrous Prosser, inventor.

JOSEPH Watrous Prosser, formerly a school teacher, of Carolina, R. I., has invented what he calls a water fuel, which is hailed as a substitute for coal. Prosser, who is eighty-two, has been developing his invention for years. Elbridge Gerry Snow, President of the Home Insurance Co., and other business men are backing him. The new fuel is obtained by fusing the oxygen element of disintegrated water and crude oil at a temperature of 900 degrees Fahrenheit.

Mack Confessed Theft Of Liquor, Says Giesel In British Court Case

Complete Complaint's Cross-Examination And Hear Other Witnesses At Resumed Session

A lengthy further hearing was held yesterday by Magistrate G. W. King of the case in which Mr. Albert Giesel, of Giesel & Co., is charging A. C. Mack with theft and trademark forgery as a result of the recent spurious liquor expose. Mr. Giesel's cross-examination was concluded and the testimony of godown employes was taken, after which the hearing adjourned until Thursday.

Mr. Tycho Wing appeared to assist Mr. J. O. Anderson in Mr. Mack's defense, while Mr. Philip W. Goldring prosecuted.

Mr. Anderson cross-examined the complainant at length.

What did you state to Mack on October 11 when he came to see you, before he told you that he removed ten barrels of whisky to his mother's house?—I told him that we were surprised that we had found irregularities, one of which was already proved to our satisfaction while the others were then under investigation. We had found that he had removed ten barrels of whisky. At first he did not admit it, but I pointed out that I knew all about it, and that he had removed them to his mother's house, which he eventually admitted. He stated that if the matter went to the higher court he would be severely punished and asked whether we could not see our way to have the thing settled in the Police Court.

Did you not tell him that if he pleaded guilty you would be lenient with him?—I said that I was interested in clearing myself of the charges which had been preferred against me in the French Court.

WOULD PLEAD GUILTY

Did you not tell him that if he pleaded guilty you would be lenient towards him?—He suggested that himself, and said that he would plead guilty to certain charges. I could not agree to it as I had to see my lawyer.

Did you hold out any hope to Mack that you would be lenient to him?—I said I would put it before my solicitor, and if he did not object I had no objection.

Re-examined by Mr. Goldring, complainant stated that Mr. Horbacz, his assistant manager, was present at the time Mack made these remarks. With reference to the remark made on Friday by him in the Police Court regarding the "stretching" of certain brandy, this referred to certain French brandy imported by the complainant firm for Reid's Ltd., and which they refused to take up. The shipper was the firm of Dennis Mounier, and instructions had been received to "stretch" the brandy.

GODOWN KEEPER WITNESS

The goodown keeper of Giesel and Company testifed that on the ground floor of their godown on 1A Chaoufong Road there was machinery for bottling and the floor was also used for packing. Here they made Sunnybrook American whisky. Sometime after August 20, he saw Mack, with another foreigner bottling some wine on the first floor of the godown. This was afterwards sent to the Yochow Road godown. The bottling was done by a Chinese named Chong Bay. Witness did not see the bottling Moscow, Oct. 23.—The American cruiser Sacramento has arrived at Vladivostok in response to the request of the American Consul.

The Soviets blame the Japanese for the disorders.

(China Press Service)

Moscow, Oct. 23.—The Soviet Government has received advices from Chita to the effect that General Dieterichs had begun negotiations with the Japanese commander at Vladivostok and with the consular representatives of Japan and the other nations for the surrender of the city. The despatch added that the American, British and Japanese consuls had assured all foreigners that they would be protected. Additional advices stated that there had been skirmishes between the Japanese and Soviet forces at Okervekah.

(China Press Service)

Vladivostok, Oct. 22.—American and British Marines have been landed here and are guarding the foreign Consulates.

Tokio, October 22.—Japanese soldiers, and soldiers of the Far Eastern Republic clashed at a fort just outside Vladivostok yesterday, according to reports received here today. Vladivostok is in darkness as the electric light plant failed and robbers are reported as pillaging the city.

Incomplete but authoritative information gathered from several sources in Shanghai indicate that trouble has broken out again in Vladivostok which may prove extremely serious.

The French cruiser Colmar, a former German cruiser of the Emden type, sailed for Vladivostok yesterday, apparently to assure French citizens and property there protection, and according to the Dah Tong News Bureau two Chinese cruisers have been ordered there to protect Chinese.

The British warship Carlyle, Captain Dickens, is already at Vladivostok, and has 50 British marines aboard. It is assumed that the Marines mentioned in messages received here are from the Carlyle. The U. S. S. Sacramento commanded by Commander J. F. Green, is also at Vladivostok but has no Marines aboard. The landing party is thought to have been bluejackets from the Sacramento.

Many Religions Unite In Passing Peace Resolution

Sunday afternoon a large meeting was held at the International Institute in the interests of peace among all sections and parties in China. A resolution to this effect, similar to one passed in Peking, was presented by Dr. Gilbert Reid and was then moved by a Mohammedan, seconded by a Christian and supported in short speeches by a Taoist abbot, a Confucian scholar, a Buddhist priest, a Parsee and others. The audience then voted unanimously in favor of the resolution. Great interest was shown in the subject by all present.

the dignified Court of the present day.

Following Mr. Lyman's speech Toastmaster Fessenden read a letter of congratulation from Judge Peter Grain, of the British Supreme Court, regretting his inability to be present and sending his heartfelt congratulations to Judge Lobingier. Mr. Duncan MacNeill of the British Bar amplified Judge Grain's regrets with a few personal messages from that learned British jurist.

DR. POTT SPEAKS

Dr. Hawks Pott delivered a short brilliant speech on the great debt the community owes to Judge Lobingier for his continuous devotion to duty during the past twenty years.

Dr. Pott recalled a similar celebration on June 30, 1916 when the U. S. Court for China was celebrating its decennial.

"Our warm affection and high esteem for Judge Lobingier has continued to grow with the years," Dr. Pott said.

"Today our Judge is not on the bench but in the dock; we are the prosecutors, or persecutors if you choose; we are the witnesses and it is we who are passing sentence.

"Judge Lobingier is neither an optimist nor a pessimist, but a meliorist. Perhaps you are not familiar with the present day definitions of optimist and pessimist; if so, may I give you two definitions which I heard recently. In the United States an optimist is a man who continually goes around with a corkscrew in his hip pocket, trusting that the opportunity may arrive when he will have occasion to use it. The definition of a pessimist I heard in England, which is that a pessimist is a man who wears both braces and suspenders. In other words a man who continually looks on the darkest side of things.

"Therefore I am sure you will agree with me that Judge Lobingier does not fall in either of these two classes but like the philosopher of old 'Follows the golden mean.'

"He has always had the best interests of the community at heart and his continual interest in everything affecting the community has materially aided the well being of all concerned.

"Nothing is ever too much trouble for him. At all public gatherings where Americans are to be found Judge Lobingier is always a ready and willing speaker, expressing his keen interest in simple, clear, forceful language. His deep and ready sympathies with our Chinese friends has acted always as a strong incentive and encouragement toward the attainment of the national aspirations. As true and loyal Americans it is our duty to support our Judge through the weight of public opinion.

HAS SUPPORT OF ALL

Americans at heart are all believers of law and order, upon which firm foundation our government was founded. It is true that at the present certain reactions have occurred, largely due to the after effects of the war that sometimes make us wonder what the country is coming to, but these rebellions against law and order are but frothy manifestations and do not sink deep within the heart of the nation. Americans love fair play. Take for example the famous election when President Hayes was elected by a single vote. There were many republicans and democrats too who thought that Tilden should have been inaugurated, but they abided by the decision of the Congressional court, no matter what their private opinions may have been.

"Even in our present day we have an analagous situation in a baseball game. Frequently the umpire is the butt of severe criticism but there are always those lovers of fair play who shout 'Let him alone. He's doing the best he can.'

"Judge Lobingier, I take great pleasure in congratulating you upon your twentieth anniversary as a Federal Judge and speaking on behalf of the community of Shanghai I assure you that you have our entire and loyal support in everything you undertake."

Following Dr. Pott, Mr. T. H. Simmang of Tientsin, who spoke in the place of Mr. Richard T. Evans, brought the greetings and felicitations of the Tientsin bar and assured him of the support of the people of Tientsin.

Speaking for General Ho Feng-ling, military governor of Sung-kiang and Shanghai, and for himself, Mr. Hsu Yuan, Commissioner of Foreign Affairs, also paid tribute to Judge Lobingier's remarkable judiciary achievements and to his work in support of education.

The congratulatory telegram from Mr. Wang Chung-hui, the present Premier of China, was read by Mr. N. T. Yang, Secretary of the Bureau of Foreign Affairs. It extolled Judge Lobingier's accomplishments on the Bench, his integrity and sense of humanity and extended heartiest congratulations.

JUDGE RESPONDS

Judge Lobingier's response follows:

"How little it is given one to foresee his future! Well did Shakespeare make Banquo question.

"'If you can look into the seeds of time
And see which grain will grow and which will not?'

"When I left the law school I little anticipated (though I did desire) a judicial career. Much less did I anticipate one which would be largely spent outside my own country. But now, at the close of only two decades, I find myself fortunate enough to be able to look back upon a variety of experiences —geographical, juridical, political and personal—such, I venture to think, as have come to few of my countrymen within a like period. I trust I may not seem egotistical in reviewing them. They have come to me not through any merit of mine but partly through what the poet calls 'the skirts of happy chance' and partly through opportunities provided by friends. At any rate, this appears to be the appropriate occasion to review them and, if you will overlook the necessarily frequent use of the first personal pronoun, I shall try to mention some experiences which have been most interesting even though to you they may not be informing.

ON THE SUPREME COURT COMMISSION

"My first judicial experience, which began just twenty years ago, was in connection with the highest court of the state in which I was reared. This was inverting the normal order. Usually the judicial career begins with the local court, extending later to that of general jurisdiction, and, if appellate experience comes at all, it is the final stage. But the situation which made possible a different order for me was itself unusual. The Supreme Court of Nebraska had then but three judges. For years it had been falling behind in its work and at the time of which I speak it was estimated that from the commencement of a case in the district court until its final disposition by the Supreme Court, in the ordinary course of procedure, seven years would be required. To meet this unfortunate emergency the legislature created a 'Supreme Court Commission' of nine members, to sit in three divisions, to hear all cases, review the records, examine the authorities and prepare the opinions of the approval of the judges who were thus relieved of time consuming drudgery and enabled to devote their attention to the opinions which came to them from the Commission, and which they sometimes rejected, often revised, but almost utilised to some extent.

"The Commissioners were appointed by the Supreme Court Judges who evidently wanted young men with good hearing and good eyesight who would listen patiently to long and tedious arguments by such as Whittier terms,

"'Weary (probably he meant wearisome) lawyers with endless tongues.'

"Often we were led to question St. Paul's assurance 'whether tongues they shall cease.' Good eyesight was equally needed in order to read voluminous records of dim type-written pages, poorly printed briefs and innumerable volumes of law reports—in all kinds of type from mediaeval black letter to modern fine print—painfully unearthed from dark and dusty corners of the State Law Library. Apparently I was believed to possess these two qualifications of good hearing and good eyesight for I became an 'elu of the Nine.'

"The Commission was a temporary expedient but my service there, though not lengthy, was extremely valuable to me. The case, how to identify the controlgation and exposition involved questions of wide range in both public and private law and the opinions which I wrote then I have had occasion to use and refer to repeatedly in my subsequent work. In fact that work, as regards technique and method, has been largely a continuation of what I did on the Supreme Court Commission. I learned there the rudiments of what little I may know about how to analyse a case, how to identify the controlling points, and how to express them in the form of a judicial opinion. Subsequent experience has convinced me that such form is quite adaptable to nisi prius work without a jury and that between such work and that of an appellate court judge there is little, if any, substantial difference.

IN THE PHILIPPINE COURTS

"My next field was a strange and distant one. In 1901 our government established a new and reorganised system of courts for the Philippines and when my term on the Supreme Court Commission had expired I was given an opportunity to share in a great piece of constructive work.

"Back in my undergraduate days I had begun the study of Roman Law and historical and comparative jurisprudence and acquired a great fascination for all of them. But ten years of active practice and my service on the Supreme Court Commission led me far from those tempting fields. In the Philippines, however, I found in actual operation a lineal descendant of the Roman Law which it consequently became my duty and privilege to apply. Moreover, by the time I arrived, American procedure had been substituted for Spanish and I was enabled to participate in the very interesting process of blending a substantive law of ultimate Roman origin with a procedural system of ultimate Anglo-Saxon origin, so that civil law rights were and are administered and enforced through common law remedies.

"My first work in the Philippines was in the provinces and there I came in contact with the native justice of the peace courts, which offered a fertile field for practical law reform. They exercised a rather important jurisdiction, and were nearer the people than any other Philippine courts but they were presided over by men who were usually without the elements of legal training. To inaugurate some remedy for this condition I called and held in Samar, which was one of the two provinces of my judicial district, an assembly for the justices of the peace, who were there given elementary instruction in the law which they were supposed to administer. Subsequently I held several more of these assemblies or schools, including a memorable one in Leyte during 1906 and the basis of my work on procedure in the Philippines was a Manual which I prepared for the Justices of the Peace, with special reference to these assemblies. Still later the Philippine Commission, which was then the sole legislative body, requested me to draft an act for the reorganisation of these courts. I did so in the early months of 1907 and it was passed by the Commission so as to become effective on March 31 of that year.

"Another interesting experience there, was contact with educated natives who had been trained in a different system of law but who were as anxious to learn ours as I was to learn theirs. Chief Justice Arellano of the Philippine Supreme Court was, during my service, regarded as the most learned of the Filipinos and one of my prized momentoes of that service is a letter from him on the occasion of my retirement from the Philippine judiciary. Of the present native members of the Philippine Supreme Court, Chief Justice Araullo was my colleague and daily associate in the courts at Manila, Justices Villamor and Avancena were also colleagues though in different districts, while Justice Romualdez was my Fiscal (District Attorney) and confidential friend when I was the presiding judge of the Twelfth Judicial District.

IN CHINA

"The earliest of my legal studies was International Law, in which I became deeply interested and the theme of my graduating oration was 'International Arbitration.' When the opportunity came for service in China, I was enabled for the first time to apply in a practical way my studies in this interesting field. For while our court here does not always, or frequently, administer the Law of Nations in the cases which come before it, the underlying system by which it operates is itself a branch of International Law. The foreign courts function effectively only by comity and each must recognise and protect, so far as possible, the jurisdiction of the others. Hence arises a situation similar to that out of which International Law itself originated.

"But I regard the function of these extraterritorial courts as something more than that of tribunals for deciding cases in which their nationals are defendants. I believe that they can and should be models to which China may look in building her own judicial system. The Chinese are now definitely committed to both a judiciary and a jurisprudence upon Western lines. With Western tribunals in their midst administering Western law for well nigh a century it should not be necessary for them to go far afield for object lessons. And this conception of our function will naturally bring us into closer relation with the jurists of China —a relation which we should welcome and cultivate. Association with such types as Wang Chung-hui, the present Premier, whose fame as a jurist is international and Wenfu Yiko Hu of the Chinese Supreme Court, a graduate of our University of Chicago, has not only been helpful to me but has confirmed me in the belief that, in jurisprudence as in other subjects, the Chinese intellect is inferior to none.

UNDER FOUR PRESIDENTS

"Serving, as I have been mainly outside of my own country, my work has nevertheless brought me in contact with the chief magistrates of our nation much more than would have been the case had I been presiding over a court in the homeland. It has been my privilege to serve under and to know, in something more than a perfunctory way, the four most recent of our Presidents, and a word as to impressions gained at close range might not be without interest. My service began under Theodore Roosevelt whose life and memory afford me inspiration. I shall always remember his boundless energy, his wide range of interests, his encyclopedic knowledge, his democratic spirit, his devotion to so many good causes, his idealism and optimism, his intense patriotism, balanced as it was with a broad internationalism.

"William Howard Taft I had the privilege of knowing as Governor of the Philippines and Secretary of War before he came to the Presidency. He brought to that great office probably a wider experience than any other President. His is a genial though impulsive personality. Like Roosevelt he has high ideals, makes up his mind quickly and expresses himself with freedom and frankness. Personally I owe him much and the nation owes him much more.

"Woodrow Wilson was a President with a world vision which I hope and believe will one day be realised. His activities have been concentrated and his methods administrative. His plan was to gather information and arrive at his conclusions through trusted friends rather than by hearing the pros and cons of opposing interests.

"George Sutherland, former President of the American Bar Association and appointed the other day a Justice of the Supreme Court, remarked to me once of President Harding, with whom he was closely associated in the United States Senate: 'He is not a lawyer but you will find that he takes up in a very judicial way the matter which comes before him.' My own observation has amply confirmed this. Indeed I would not hesitate to say that, although of the four whom I have mentioned, he is least connected in the popular mind with legal matters, our present Chief Magistrate has the most judicial temperament. In handling his problems, great and small, he has already displayed the three essential qualifications of the judicial office—patience, disinterestedness, courage; patience to hear all sides fairly and to gather full information before acting; disinterestedness in approaching each question with an open mind and with a view solely of reaching correct results; and courage to take, at whatever cost, the action which the law and the facts require; as witness his recent veto of a measure, popular in some quarters, but which would have loaded the public treasury with a stupendous burden while providing no means for meeting it. Once in conversation with the President, when I remarked upon his evident grasp of judicial methods, he replied very modestly 'I read law for about a year before taking up newspaper work.' I could not but feel that, whatever the gains of journalism, the legal profession was the loser by his choice. Should I ever return to the bar I should like to practice before Judge Harding.

OBSERVATIONS ON THE JUDICIAL OFFICE

"It is the misfortune of a judge, that in almost every official act, he must disappoint some one. In course of time the disappointed ones naturally become numerous; but I am happy to be able to state it as the result of my experience that the percentage of those who harbor a permanent grievance on that account is not large. It would be smaller still if those concerned could know the burdens and difficulties of the judicial office, especially in a jurisdiction like this. For in addition to the strain of long hours of session and the drudgery of sifting conflicting evidence, there is the responsibility of arriving at the real truth and ascertaining the actual merits of the controversy, and the further one of determining the law applicable. And here popular sentiment sometimes errs in holding the courts responsible for imperfect laws which they are bound to apply. It is easy to form a superficial opinion from vague reports; but a reliable judgment based upon competent evidence is a different matter and when public opinion shall have progressed to the stage where it withholds judgment until the record has been seen, it will be more considerate of the courts.

"But, looking back over a period of twenty years, I find little to complain of, personally, either from the general public or from the reputable press. Indeed I feel that I have been signally favored by both and I take this opportunity to express my deep sense of obligation to these splendid American organisations represented and co-operating here tonight, to the Press of Shanghai of all nationalities and to the American press in general.

"Few judges may hope to equal the record of the great Sage of China whose birthday was so generally observed last week and who, as magistrate of the city of Chung-tu, set up a model administration and so conducted his office that 'there was an end of crime.' (I suspect that the people themselves as well as Judge Confucius may have had something to do with that result). But fewer still may hope for the popular indorsement received by one of the greatest judges of Israel. We do not read of Judge Samuel as a dispeller of crime nor as a dispatcher of business. We do not know that his docket was always kept clear. His library facilities were probably not of the best nor is he remembered as a great social luminary. But at the close of his long career Judge Samuel made an appeal to the people whose result almost justified the principle of the recall. He first assembled them at Gilgal between Jericho and Jordan—the great national gathering place, and the seat of his court,

"'And Samuel said unto all Israel
'Behold * * here am I:
Witness against me before
Jahweh and before His anointed:
Whose ox have I taken?
Or whose ass have I taken?
Or whom have I defrauded?
Whom have I oppressed?
Or of whose hand have I taken a ransom to blind mine eyes therewith?
And I will restore it you.'

"And they said:

"'Thou hast not defrauded us
Nor oppressed us
Neither hast thou taken aught
of any man's hand.'

"Surely that was a resolution of confidence worth having. But when I look into your faces tonight, and recall the loyal support which the bar and the community as a whole have always given me, I venture to think that not even Judge Samuel had anything on me. For I have come to know in recent years that the most valuable asset in life is friends—friends who believe in you and are ready to show their faith by their works. I can never requite my friends for what they have done for me, but I can at least strive to prevent any regret on their part for having done it. And this will be my endeavor in the future, even more than in the past, to deserve that support and to merit and retain that confidence."

Yak-Tail Trails

he reached Camul, he went over the same trail as did the Russians in the calvacade, and so for a brief space, at least, they followed in the centuries old wake of both Genhiz Khan and his conquering yak-tail banners, and Marco Polo and his wonderful and imaginative mind.

A few miles from the mountains the Narim river, which flows down the pass, trickled out into the desert—and then suddenly disappeared, another victim to the dry, hot sucking sands of inner Asia. On a few miles are the five wells for which Hami is famous—probably a surface seepage of the lost river—and there travelers camped one night before entering Hami.

Hami is a wee little desert kingdom all by itself on the edge of the desert. It is ruled by a Khan, although nominally under the Chinese Government—the last town in Chinese Turkestan and the first town to be reached by caravans from China. A curious little kingdom on the very doorstep of Gobi, Hami is a wierd, strange mixture of China and Islam. Many, many years ago it was a center of Buddhism and there are still many ancient relics of Buddhism in Hami and the surrounding country. Today it is the last outpost of Islam, and the followers of the prophet keep the faith with sturdy and ancient standards. They eat not of the flesh of the pig, and they drink not of the juice of the flesh. And a very, very few smoke the opium pipe.

Marco Polo records the fact that the people of Hami were among the most hospitable that he came across in his travels. Serge and his companions tell the same story. They were feted by the Khan himself. They were given vegetables from the well-watered fields about, and especially melons—for which Hami is famous—grapes and rice. And those three things came as a welcome change to the travelers after their enforced 'banquets of mutton and tea' across the bleak Mongolian steppes. When they went on to Anhsi, 18 days away, they were greatly assisted, after sincere invitations to return.

In tomorrow's installment of the Russian, Serge's interesting trek through the heart of Asia he describes the costumes and customs of the Mongols. Aracady has also drawn two exceptionally fine pictures of Mongolian Women's head-dress.

BAKE-RITE BREAD FOR BREAKFAST

MACK CONFESSED THEFT OF LIQUOR

done. The bottles were marked "Hennessy" and were packed in beer cases. There was no special mark on the cases. There were 48 cases in all, and these were carried away by a coolie. They were not entered in the godown books as Mack had stated that the wine belonged to him.

Why did you believe they were Mack's?—Sometime after August 20 Mack bought two barrels of spirit from Slowe and Company and these barrels were brought into the godown. Mack asked that these barrels should not be entered into the books as they were his property.

COOLIE TESTIFIES

The bottling coolie of Giesel and Co. said he had been bottling in the Chaoufoong Road godown for the past six months. Referring to the operations he said that some brandy was manufactured from a mixture of material and drugs. More than 1,300 bottles in old beer cases were taken into the godown. He did some of the filling but the work in connection with the corks and capsules was done by another coolie. Witness actually saw the corking done and the marks were also put on the corks and capsules. Some genuine brandy taken from the godown was mixed into the bottles. About six or seven dozen bottles of genuine brandy were used in making 48 cases. Witness saw the liquor being made with his own eyes. He met Mack once in the street near Wayside Wharf and asked him how the court case was proceeding. Mack answered that the case had not yet been settled.

Mr. Goldring: Was anything said about the ten cases of whisky or any other whisky?—Yes, Mack said he bought the ten barrels from Szechuen Road. He also told me that if any one mentioned the barrels to say that it was Mack's property.

Cross-examined by Mr. Tycho Wing, witness said he went to Wayside Wharf to inspect some samples of liquor. It was the opinion of witness that Mack bought them aboard. Witness said it was true that these barrels on the wharf were sold to Raynes.

SUBMANAGER WITNESS

Jacob Bernhard Hosbacz, a Rumanian and a French protege, submanager of Giesel and Co. said he met Mack at Giesel's home at 9 o'clock on the morning of the 11. Giesel told him that Mack had apparently heard that he was taking steps for the thefts and the trade marks. Mack came to Giesel to be lenient with him in these matters. Giesel also told witness that Mack had confessed that he had taken 272 cases of vermouth. Witness was interested in the question and to satisfy himself asked Mack what he intended doing.

Mack said: "Of course, I took the vermouth and I also took the brandy and in order not to make matters complicated I am going to plead guilty rightaway, and I ask you to be lenient with me as regards the other matters."

Witness knew that Mack had also taken 10 barrels of whisky, and when he questioned him regarding this, he replied, "Yes, I took it. This is in my mother's house. You may have it back any time you like. I am not going to touch it." Mack continually pleaded with Giesel not to be hard on him.

Cross-examined by Mr. Wing, witness said he did not mention any particular number of barrels.

Of course, you do not know if Giesel had said anything to Mack about leniency?—Giesel did not commit himself to any course of action. I did not hear.

REGARDING CONFESSION

You were under the impression that if Mack confessed, Giesel would treat him leniently?—I cannot say what impression it made on me at the time. I should say if things went right perhaps Giesel would not have been hard on him.

Did you not say that if Mack pleaded guilty Giesel would treat him leniently?—We did not want Mack to do anything. We only wanted the right thing to be done.

Did you not think that the right thing for Mack was to plead guilty?—I thought at the time and think just now that if Mack said he stole the goods and if he came to Court and pleaded guilty he would be doing the right thing.

Do you think Giesel would have been alright in the French Court if Mack pleaded guilty?—Naturally. I do think that if he came forward and confessed it would be the right thing to do because I considered that Giesel was innocent and I also considered Mack was guilty from his confession.

Mack at that time was in a condition of considerable agitation?—Not of particular agitation. As a matter of fact he looked rather calm. I would have expected that he should have been more agitated. I am not a psychologist.

During this conversation was Mack in a frame of mind to do anything in order to placate Giesel?—I did not have this impression at the time.

Did he not offer to do anything that you or Giesel wanted? Did he not say that "I took this and that thing, and I am going to plead guilty'?—He said 'I am going to plead guilty', and that was the right thing.

The hearing was adjourned till Thursday morning, when a number of witnesses will be examined for the prosecution, among them Battustizzi, an Italian.

The Magistrate remarked that this witness would have to know that what he was going to say might be taken as evidence against him in the Italian Consular Court.

Tobacco Company Employe Held Here For Embezzlement

Preliminary hearing may be held today before U. S. Commissioner N. E. Lurton in the case of H. E. Falcone, former assistant manager of Liggett and Meyers' Canton office, who was arrested here on Sunday on charges of embezzlement, on the steamer President Grant on which he was bound for America.

The arrest was made by Deputy United States Marshal Van Buskirk on a warrant that was issued by the United States District Attorney on complaint of the local offices of Liggett and Meyers. SOOCHOW UNIVERSITY WINS EAST CHINA TENNIS TITLE

Soochow university won the intercollegiate tennis championship of East China yesterday by defeating the Nanking players in well contested matches that were played under very adverse conditions on the hard courts of the Columbia Country club.

Soochow won by capturing the singles from Nanking, the latter players taking but one set. The scores were:

Lee defeated Hwang 3-6, 6-0, 6-3.
Liang defeated Tan 7-5, 6-3.
Yang defeated Lan 6-2, 6-4.

Having won the singles Soochow defaulted to Nanking in the doubles, as the contest was to be three out of five points, and as the victory in the singles gave them 3 points they did not need the others.

The semi finals were played on Saturday between Nanyang and Nanking, the latter winning the doubles after the score had gone to two points all. In the final game, which was to decide which college should contest with Soochow, Nanking won through the fine playing of Hwang, who was the star.

Throughout all the matches an excellent brand of sportsmanship was shown by all the contesting players, the competition being keen but friendly. Yesterday the finals were played in continuous rain which made the going very difficult.

ENGLAND BEATS IRELAND, 2-0, AS 20,000 LOOK ON

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 21.—England defeated Ireland by two goals to nil at West Bromwich today. The weather was fine and there were 20,000 spectators. England was nearly always attacking in the first half but the forwards were never really together and there was lack of touch between the halves and the front line. The Irish backs worked hard to keep the Englishmen out. At the interval the score was 0-0.

On resumption the game was faster and livelier, the play swinging from end to end. The Irish attack compared with England's was disjointed but was occasionally dangerous. From a corner forced by Mercer (Preston) H. Chambers (Liverpool) netted cleverly after eighteen minutes. The Irishmen strove gamely but could make no impression on the home defence. Four minutes from time Chambers again scored for England.

In a game which was fast, clean and thoroughly enjoyable from the spectators' point of view the St. Xavier's 1st League eleven defeated the Nanyang College first eleven Sunday on the latter's ground, eight goals to two.

MINISTER KAO'S LIBEL ACTION UP FOR HEARING

$50,000 Suit Brought By Communications Chief Is Adjourned

The Tls. 50,000 libel suit filed in the Mixed Court at the instance of Mr. Kao En-hung, Minister of Communications at Peking, against the editor and proprietor of the Chinese Associated Press, was up for hearing before Assessor Allman and Magistrate Yui yesterday. The damages are claimed as the result of an alleged defamatory article appearing in the Eastern Times and Shanghai Journal of Commerce.

At yesterday's hearing strenuous opposition was made by Dr. O. Fischer, counsel for the defendant, to proceeding with the case without the presence of the plaintiff. Mr. L. Hartigan, for the plaintiff, maintained that it was not necessary for his client to be in court, reading article 41 of the Mixed Court rules of procedure and arguing that the case could be heard in the presence either of plaintiff or his attorney.

Dr. Fischer declared that if an attorney appeared for an absent party a power of attorney must be filed previously in the court. It seemed to counsel for the defense that Mr. Hartigan, and not the Minister of Communications, was suing his client. He interpreted Kao's absence as indicating that he did not wish to proceed with the case.

In reply to the Assessor's query whether there was any representative of Mr. Kao in court, Mr. Hartigan produced a young Chinese who took the witness stand and stated that he was instructed to represent plaintiff according to a letter sent by the latter to Mr. Hartigan. He said that he knew of libellous articles alleging that Mr. Kao had lost $100,000 of Government money by investments in stock exchanges which became bankrupt. Dr. Fischer put it to the witness that he had been promised $10,000 if he won the case. This the witness denied categorically. Further cross-examined, he said he had come from Peking to represent Mr. Kao and that Mr. Kao had gone to the lawyer personally and paid the fees. There was some discussion regarding a letter from Mr. Hartigan to the defendant, the witness having stated that the letter annoyed Mr. Kao, who did not want it sent.

Dr. Fischer contended that this made clear why he wanted the plaintiff to attend court, but the Assessor remarked that the Court understood Mr. Kao's objection to the letter was that he did not wish any apology but wanted suit instituted immediately.

The case was adjourned.

Taking of testimony in the case was concluded yesterday at a second hearing of the case before the Consular Court, which has been called to sit by reason of this case for the first time in a space of four years.

Members of the Consular Body conducting the hearing are Mr. Edwin S. Cunningham, American Consul General, who is presiding as President of the Consular Court; Mr. Sidney Barton, British Consul-General, and Mr. N. Aall, Norwegian Consul-General. Mr. J. G. Priestwood is appearing as attorney for the plaintiff while Mr. H. Langley Smith is appearing for the Municipal Council.

The plaintiff and his brother, Mr. Terrence McDermott set forth their case against the Municipal Council. In testimony they gave at the opening hearing on October 16. It was brought out then that on July 21 Detective Sergeant R. J. Schmidt of Hongkew Police Station accompanied by Mr. H. W. Hearne, assistant clerk of the British Court, and Mr. Abbey of the Registrar's office went to the McDermott home at 894 Hanbury Road on July 21 last and ordered Mr. McDermott to accompany them. The testimony was that they took him to the Hongkew police station where he was searched and locked in a cell for a space of hours, being released after his brother had made several calls upon Mr. G. W. King, British Magistrate. In testimony that he gave the plaintiff emphasised that no warrant for his arrest was produced.

At yesterday's hearing police officers of Hongkew Station and British Court officials who had accompanied Detective Sergeant Schmidt testified.

As was disclosed at the opening hearing the cause of Mr. McDermott's detention grew out of a complaint that his wife had made to the authorities on the day before he was arrested when she reported that her husband while intoxicated had been beating and kicking her and she asked for shelter.

The circumstances of the complaint Mrs. McDermott had made and the details of the arrest as given were reviewed by the witnesses heard yesterday.

Wedding

EUBANK—WILKINS

A very pretty wedding ceremony took place at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. T. Proctor, 61 Dixwell Road, at 7:3 o'clock last evening, when Mr. Carr N. Eubank, district manager of the Texas Company, Nanking, and Miss Helen G. Wilkins, of Mexico City, Missouri, were married in the presence of a large number of friends.

The Proctor home was prettily decorated with palms and pink and white cosmos for the occasion and the ceremony was performed by Dr. F. J. White, president of Shanghai College. The wedding march was played by Mrs. R. W. Brannon.

The bride wore a charming gown of white georgette and silk shadow lace and carried a shower bouquet of white and rose carnations. The maid of honor, Miss Mildred Proctor, wore pink organdy and carried a shower bouquet of pink carnations. Mr. Walter Williams acted as best man.

The ceremony was followed by a reception, after which Mr. and Mrs. Eubank left for the North. They will make their home in Nanking.

Among the guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. R. T. McCoy, Mr. H. E. Gilmore, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Battersby, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Healey, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Stafford, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bryan, Mr. and Mrs. Leo P. Kurt, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Fu, Mr. Gilbert King, Mr. Albert Young, Miss Roberta White, Mr. G. C. Stockton, Mr. Robert Hendry, Mr. James Latimer, Jr., Miss Helen E. Ritner, Miss Ethel Lacy, Miss Nina Stallings, of Soochow, and Mrs. J. V. Latimer, of Hangchow.

Soviet Demands Seat At Conference

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 21.—In a bluntly worded Note to Britain the Soviet Government expresses astonishment at the absence of a reply from the Entente to its recent communication stressing the necessity of representation of Russia as the Power most vitally concerned at the Near East Peace Conference.

The Note contrasts the fact that Jugo-Slavia and even Japan will participate and recalls Russia's previous warning that the Washington Conference on the question of the Pacific would be condemned to impotence if Russia did not participate.

A reminder is given in the Note that conflicts have again arisen in the Far East and protests against the idea that the question of the Straits can be detached for consideration by a separate conference after kindred matters have previously been settled, as Russia is thereby confronted with decisions inextricably related to the future of the Straits. The Soviet Government categorically insists on Russian participation in all Near East discussions.

Pershing Wants U. S. To 'Prepare For Emergency'

(China Press Service)

New Orleans, Oct. 22.—Alvin M. Owsley of Texas was elected National Commander of the American Legion at the annual convention in session here. Delegates are present from every state in the union, Hawaii, the Philippines, Alaska, Cuba, Porto Rico and several foreign countries.

General Pershing, speaking before the convention, said that the United States had an earnest desire for peace but declared that Americans would be committing a supreme folly unless they were reasonably prepared for any emergency, or fail to provide a force that would compell obedience to the laws of the country. General Pershing left here after his speech to inspect the army stations on the Mexican border, his old command, before returning to Washington.

Yesterday Spanish Fort, the historic fort which protected New Orleans from roving pirates and hostile Indians in the days of Spanish dominion, was rededicated by Major General John A. Lejeune, commandant of the United States Marine Corps, to the memory of its early defenders. Spanish Fort was built in 1788 by Governor De Ulloa to guard the mouth of the Mississippi river.

Charges Of Abduction Dismissed By Court

Charges of abduction and assault, growing indirectly out of a long-standing feud between two Chinese families, that were filed some days ago in the Mixed Court against one Liu Chin-shan—described by the complainants as a villain of deepest dye and abductor of a Chinese bride—all were dismissed yesterday.

The principal prosecuting witness in the case was Zee Ji-ching, who said his bride had been abducted from a village near Yangchow nine years ago and who, describing his search for her, told that he had come to Shanghai and had been blinded in an assault the bride's abductors had made upon him.

At a preceding hearing the accused set forth in testimony that the woman in the case some years ago had fled to him from her people, had returned to them for a space and again had come back to him. He added that he had been the victim of blackmail by reason of the situation and said the charges grew out of a recent refusal he had made further to be squeezed.

Chosen Yusen Kaisha Cuts Freight Charges

The Chosen Yusen Kaisha, the only regular mail steamship company working services under subsidy of the Korean Government-General, has announced a 10 percent reduction on daily necessities under instructions of the Korean government. The reduction is to be operative from October 1.

Following the examples set by the Nippon Yusen Kaisha and the Osaka Shosen Kaisha the company will carry out also a 10 percent reduction on commodities consigned to co-operative societies and direct consumers. The reduction is made on goods including miso, soy, fish, flour, vegetables, firewood and charcoal, beef, chicken, pork, eggs and dried fish.

More U. S. Marines Land At Foochow

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 20.—The situation at Foochow remains quiet with no immediate prospect of further trouble. The Southern leaders are now reorganising their forces. General Hsu Shu-tseng (Little Hsu) has assumed the title of Commander-in-Chief, but the actual command of the Southern army devolves upon General Wang Yung-chuan, while General Hsu Chung-chih is devoting himself to the task of preparing for an expedition against Kwangtung.

The relations of Admiral Sah Chen-ping with the invaders are evidently still peaceful, but it is said that they are unwilling to consider his appointment as Civil Governor official unless it is confirmed by Dr. Sun Yat-sen.

The United States Ship Huron has landed marines to reinforce those already doing shore duty.

Reject German As Official Language

(Reuter's Service)

Geneva, Oct. 21.—The desirability of adding German as an official language alongside English and French was discussed by the International Labor Conference on the proposition of M. Jouhaux, representing the Confederation General du Travail, but the proposal was rejected by 14 votes to 12. Mr. Adatchi (Japan) recommended adherence to English and French alone.

A Notable Anniversary

IN this region of frequent changes in officialdom, twenty years constitutes a long period of service in any post. And in the judiciary, changes are, if anything, more frequent than in the diplomatic service. Yet there is no position where experience counts for more than in that of a Judge. Every year adds to his usefulness, every case well-handled makes it easier to dispose correctly of others.

It is such considerations which made last night's tribute to Judge Lobingier a genuine expression of the sentiment of the community. It recognises in him an expert in his line who is qualified to render the public valuable and necessary service and whose labors for a full score of years are entitled to something more than passing mention.

The completion of such a period constitutes a landmark in whose observance the public has a distinct interest. Judge Lobingier's work, moreover, has been of a constructive character. So long as the United States Court shall continue to function it will feel the impress of his personality and profit by the improvements he has introduced.

In his address of last evening the Judge touched upon some drawbacks of the judicial office but he also acknowledged his indebtedness to the local press. Its support is not usually given unless deserved and in felicitating him upon reaching this milestone in his career, we voice a general sentiment in further expressing the hope that he may continue his labors among us for another score of years.

Diphtheria—How It May Be Avoided.

Diphtheria is usually contracted when the child has a cold. The cold prepares the child's system for the reception and development of the diphtheria germs. When there are cases of diphtheria in the neighborhood children that have colds should be kept at home and off the street until recovered. Give them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and they will not have to remain at home long. It also cleans out the culture beds, which form in a child's throat when it has a cold, and minimizes the risk of ca-

The Horizon In Its Various Senses

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS
Eminent Astronomer and Authority On Subjects Of Scientific Interest

"'A' and 'B' appeal to you to settle a dispute about the horizon. 'A' affirms as follows: (1) On a sea level the horizon is the imaginary line which apparently makes the sky touch the distant sea, owing to the shape of the earth. (2) That irrespective of one's strength of eyesight the horizon is always equally far distant on sea level, and the farther you move from the surface of the earth the horizon becomes bigger. (3) That the horizon from a ship's deck is about fifteen miles distant. (4) That any apparent change of distance on the horizon is a matter of optical illusion or peculiarity of one's eyesight. (5) That the horizon on sea level is equal in its length in all directions, thus making the surface appear a round table. (6) That the horizon is the same on any given observation point for all persons irrespective of different strength of eyesight.

"'B' affirms that depending on one's eyesight, the horizon is different for each observer; hence the above six points are wrong.

"'A' rejoins that what 'B' states is vision and not horizon. —B. Marx, Brooklyn."

It is very important for everybody to have sound views about the horizon. But it is a mistake to assume that such views are by any means universally entertained. The man who spoke disrespectfully of the equator was no worse than the one who thinks he is under no obligation to understand the horizon.

If Mr. "B's" views as expressed above were sound, astronomy and navigation would be uncertain sciences. Suppose the horizon to approach or recede according to the "strength" of the observer's eyesight, then no one could go safely to sea, for ships' officers would never agree in their observations and reckonings.

Of course, the vision must be clear and not obscured, but the horizon does not change its distance with difference of "length of sight."

There may be, it is true, a false horizon as when the circle of view is limited by a fog, which seems to rest upon the sea all around at a short distance from the ship. A misty state of the atmosphere may also cause the distant horizon to appear to approach the observer, but this is an effect anologous to that of a nearby fog, and does not determine the relations of the actual horizon to the observer.

Furthermore, it is a fact that the visible horizon does not correspond exactly with the mathematical horizon, owing to the refraction of light by the atmosphere, which increases the distance of the horizon beyond its theoretical limit.

It is well to keep in mind the fact that there are three senses in which the word horizon may be employed. First, we have the "visible" horizon, which is not the same on land as at sea, because the irregularities of elevation on land cause the outline of the circle where sky and earth meet to undulate up and down. Viewed from a deep valley among mountains the area of the sky is greatly restricted, and the horizon may be angularly twice as elevated in one direction as in another. This horizon is manifestly not everywhere equally distant from the eye, and cannot be used in observations except for strictly local purposes.

The other form of the visible horizon, sometimes called the "sensible" horizon, is that seen at sea, which is used for all scientific purposes where direct observation of the horizon is employed. It is equally distant from the observer in all directions. But the actual distance changes somewhat with the refraction.

For instance, mathematically the distance of the sea horizon viewed from an elevation of 150 feet would be about 15 miles. But taking the average refraction of the atmosphere into account, the distance would be greater, and an elevation of about 112 or 113 feet would suffice to fix the horizon at a fifteen mile distance. The earth rounds off about 8 inches per mile, that is, the horizon to an eye situated 8 inches above the level of the sea would appear about a mile away.

After the first mile the surface drops below the tingent from the point of observation in the ratio of 8 inches multiplied by the square of the distance in miles. Thus, if the distance is six miles the height of the eye should be geometrically 6 x 6 x 8 inches, or 24 feet. But owing to refraction a height of 18 feet will ordinarily suffice to show the horizon six miles away.

The effects of refraction have to be allowed for in all calculations based upon observations referred to the horizon. The dip is the angle of depression of a straight line drawn from the eye to the verge of the horizon. But the refraction bends the assumed straight line downward so that it passes the geometrical limit and shows a little of the surface behind and below what would be the visible horizon if there were no refraction.

The third sense in which the word horizon is used is that of the "rational" horizon, astronomical conception, according to which the horizontal plane pases through the center of the earth, parallel with the sensible horizon.

Here's A Morning Tonic

BY JOHN ROBINS

As it has been pointed out before, outdoor games of skill and strength are merely means to an end. The ultimate aim of most games is to give to dignified persons the opportunity to do things which may not appear dignified, but are means of winning strength or keeping well.

Any girl anxious to take a stimulating exercise in her room in the morning may do so with the simple assistance of her pillow.

Girls who enjoy beach games are more or less familiar with the exercise one may derive from juggling a medicine ball with the feet.

All one needs to gain the benefit of beach ball in one's own bedroom is a pillow.

Beach balling with a pillow in your room is easily accomplished. You simply lie flat on your back bring your knees up toward the chest and hold your feet with their "flats" upward. Then toss chest and hold your feet with raise it as high as you can.

In raising the pillow with your feet, care should be taken not to kick. The idea is not to throw the pillow high into the air, but to push it upward so that when it "goes up" you can easily catch it on its descent and then push it up again.

Easy movements of the legs in this exercise will do more to stretch and strengthen the muscles of the thighs than sudden, spasmodic motions. Jerky movements are not beneficial. The deliberate bringing of the muscles into play is what adds strength and health to muscles and body.

Hold the left leg rigid up in the air. Move the other leg away from it as far as you can. Move it very slowly. You will feel the tug at the muscles. When you have reached a point where you can no longer continue the movement, bring it back quickly, and then, holding the right leg rigid, exercise the left one in the same way.

Excellent exercise for the arms may also be taken by holding the legs high in the air, the feet together, and stretching the arms to their full length as far away from the shoulders as it can be done. Then raise them up toward the ceiling, palms upward. When they are in the same position as the upraised feet drop them to the floor, and with the palms downward execute the same movement.

Ten minutes of this sport in the morning will send you to your work with your whole body vibrant with life and your mind clear and eager to accomplish new records at the day's tasks.

Miracle Water In England Works Wonderful Cures

London, Sept. 9.—"Miracle" water, said to contain the elixir of life, has been discovered in an old well in the little Essex village of Vange. Stories of wonderful cures effected by the water have caused pilgrimages from many parts of the country, people arriving on foot, with teams and in luxurious motor cars.

A titled woman who drank less than two glasses said that it made her feel better. A millionaire who drank from the well took a jug of the water away and told the humble owner of the well that if the water did what was claimed it would do the man would never have to do another day's work.

An average of more than 500 visitors daily have been visiting the well carrying every conceivable sort of receptacle and all are served free.

The "miracle" water was discovered during a drought by an eighty-year-old farmer named George Murrell. He had recourse to a puddle which never seemed to dry up and used the water for making tea. It had a curious taste, but a few hours after drinking it Murrell felt a strange new vigor within him. The next day he drank more and said "I felt better than I had in twenty years."

Murrell told about the discovery to a seventy-year-old neighbor named Charles Cash, who found that the water came from a well. He drank some of it and experienced the same sensations as Murrell.

On the advice of a doctor a sample was sent to a public analyst in London, who discovered an amazing combination of medical properties which, he says, are not equaled even by the famous spring in Bohemia. Then the pilgrimages began. People suffering from rheumatism, dyspepsia, gout and skin diseases drank the water and claimed that they were cured. There were many ex-service men among them. The farmers have been urged to make a charge, but they will not do so as they think the spring was sent by God.

Meanwhile the village is crowded and tents have been ordered to accommodate the visitors.

Pahang Rubber Estate Meeting

The ninth annual general meeting of shareholders in the Shanghai Pahang Rubber Estate, Limited, was held yesterday at the offices of A. R. Burkill and Sons, secretaries and general managers.

In his annual address to the shareholders, the chairman said:

"Gentlemen: The report and accounts having been in your hands for some time I will, with your permission, follow the usual course and take them as read.

"Dealing first with the accounts, you will see from the balance sheet that the Company's liquid assets only just about cover the sundry creditors and loan account. The depression which continued practically throughout the whole year is reflected in the accounts before you and show a loss on the year's working of Tls. 5,954.99. After deducting the amount of Tls. 4,741.52 brought forward from last year, there remains a balance of Tls. 1,213.47 standing to the debit of profit and loss account which the Directors propose to carry forward to next year's Accounts.

"The present financial position of the Company is causing not a little anxiety and during the year the Company was obliged to borrow an amount of Tls. 2,000 to meet urgent current expenses, this amount being kindly advanced by our secretaries and general managers.

"Every possible economy was effected during the year and the reduction in the cost of production of 4d. per lb. over last year's figures is testimony to what has been achieved in this direction. The effect of the restriction of outputs which comes into operation on the November 1 has been the cause of a sharp rise in the price of rubber, but against this it must not be forgotten that there will naturally be an increase in the cost of production. Every effort will, however, be maintained to keep costs below the prevailing price, and if the present standard is maintained, it is not unlikely that this will be accomplished.

"As regards the working of the Estate, recent reports indicate that although the Estate has been economically managed throughout the year, improved conditions are noticeable. The weeding is well in hand and leaves nothing to be desired, comparative costs between this and the previous financial year showing a most satisfactory reduction. Soil conservancy work in the young discases and during the year blocks by means of Boga Medulla 1195 trees were thinned out and ridges has been entirely success- good progress was made in clearful and costs very moderate. The position was normal as regards ing the Estate of fallen timber. As regards labor, the force is adequate for all requirements and the health throughout the year was quite satisfactory.

"Mr. Birkemose continued to manage the Estate single handed and his work has been very well reported on by the visiting agent and I would like to take this opportunity of expressing the Board's appreciation of the manner in which he has brought the Estate through a most difficult year.

That is all I have to say, gentlemen. If any Shareholder has any questions to ask, I shall be pleased to answer to the best of my ability."

RESOLUTIONS PASSED

The following Resolutions were passed:

That the report and accounts for the year ended June 30, 1922, together with the recommendation as to appropriation of balance at debit of profit and loss account as presented be accepted.

"That Mr. M. Speelman be re-elected a Director of the Company.

"That Messrs. Lowe, Bingham & Matthews be re-elected auditors to the Company at an annual remuneration of Tls. 300 for Shanghai and Penang."

FOR REMOVING SUPERFLUOUS HAIR

No woman who has any sense of beauty will deny that superfluous hair is one of the greatest drawbacks to good looks.

Realising this, women of all times have put themselves to any expense, and have endured considerable pain and discomfort in order to rid themselves of this great disfigurement.

Nowadays electrolysis is a prevalent "cure" for this evil, but in reality this process involves a great deal of unnecessary expense, waste of time and pain.

The simplest quickest, and most effective treatment can easily be carried out by any sufferer, in the privacy of her home. This is the recipe:

Procure about 1 oz. powdered pheminol from your chemist; mix a sufficient quantity with a few drops of water into a stiff paste. Apply this carefully and thoroughly to the hair you wish to remove and allow the paste to dry. In a few minutes it can be gently scraped away. The skin is left absolutely free from hair, and should then be carefully washed in warm water and if desired, lightly dusted with a little talcum powder. (Advt.)

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent, or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent, or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy and retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse. It causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

"A medicine so valuable and beneficial for children as your Castoria is deserves the highest praise. I find it in use everywhere."
J. S. ALEXANDER, M. D.,

"I have prescribed Castoria to families for several years. It is all right. Mothers like it, for children will take it without any trouble."
C. A. WILSON, M. D.,

"Have used your Castoria on various occasions in suitable cases and have found it a palatable and efficient laxative, especially in the various diseases of childhood."

GERMANS CHECKED

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Oct. 21.—Addressing Radical Deputies on his journey to Russia, M. Herriot said that the Germans had received a check in their attempt to subjugate Russia to their methods.

Justice W. R. Day Quits High Court

(China Press Service)

Washington, Oct. 23.—Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court William R. Day has decided to resign in view of his duties on the German and American claims negotiations.

The resignation of Justice William Rufus Day will be the second from the United States Supreme Court within a month, Associate Justice John H. Clarke having resigned to further the interests of the League of Nations.

Justice Day has been a member of the Supreme Court since February, 1903, being appointed by President Theodore Roosevelt. He comes from a family of noted lawyers, his father Luther Day, being Chief Justice of Ohio. He studied law at the University of Michigan and the College of the City of New York and was admitted to the bar in 1872.

Justice Day was appointed Assistant Secretary of State by President William McKinley in 1897. He was a personal friend of President McKinley's and lived near him in Canton, Ohio. In April, 1898 he succeeded John Sherman as Secretary of State, being succeeded by John Hay. Mr. Day then became chairman of the U. S. Peace Commissioners at Paris to settle the terms of the Spanish-American war. He served as Circuit Judge for 4 years before being appointed a Supreme Court Justice. No intimation as to his successor has been given out.

CHURCHILL'S STAND

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 22.—Mr. Winston Churchill's continued belief in the possibility of a center party emerges from a letter he sent to the constituents of Dundee from his sickbed declaring that he proposed to stand as a Liberal Free Trader but hopes to cooperate with soberminded and progressive Conservatives in defending the country and Empire against the socialist and communist menace on the one hand and downright reaction on the other.

American Pots And Kettles Call Each Other Black

(China Press Service)

Chicago, Oct. 22.—The political campaign in the United States is in full swing and both Democratic and Republican orators are stumping the entire country leveling verbal and statistical bombasts at their opponents heads.

Senator Medill McCormick (Rep.) of Illinois, speaking at Omaha, Nebraska, last night made a bitter attack on the Democratic party and heaped ridicule on the head of former President Wilson. Senator McCormick also charged that Mr. William Gibbs McAdoo, the outstanding figure in the Wilson cabinet, who is considered a Democratic possibility for the presidency in the next election, had increased the transportation bill of the nation by three billion dollars, and had been responsible for a depreciation in the values of land which had resulted in huge losses by the farmers of the country.

Senator Walsh, in a speech at Denver last night, turned the Democratic guns on the Republicans using the new American tariff as his particular target. Senator Walsh asserted that the old Republican theory of protection for infant industries had been repudiated by the voters and predicted the electorate would clean-house this election. Senator Walsh also criticised the actions of the Republicans in considering the Bonus.
